The Carmel Pine Cone Cymbal

NINETEEN HUNDRED AND FORTY-THREE

The kid in the didies symbolizes the New Year. I don't know why, but it's a convention started by our great-grandfathers and who are we to quarrel with age and wisdom. Besides, this year, the child in the abreviated clothes has more significance than usual, because a good many good citizens will probably be reduced to the same state of nudity after they've paid their taxes. Not that any of us have anything to kick about. Neither taxes, nor food and gas rationing — even the disappearance of silk stockings anywhere nearly equals the discomfort experienced by those good citizens who wear a uniform and carry a gun for our benefit.

So we face a new year. We'll have to do without things we are used to, and we'll have to give up part of what we earn, and we'll have to give up our time in the extra-curricular activities of civilian war work, but we'll do it without grousing, and probably be as happy doing it as we were in the plushy years when the goose hung high and we had to watch our waistlines. And next New Year's we can all go to the mirror and admire the halo we've earned for being so good.

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

CITY COUNCIL BOWED DOWN BY TAX WOES

"An annually recurring nuisance," Professor George J. Pierce of Stanford Univerity, a property owner in Carmel, termed the delinquent tax date of the city in a letter to the Council Wednesday night. Along with it were a collection of comments on the subject by various out-of-towners that had been received by Tax Collector Thomas J. Heffling.

The cause for the complaints is the fact that Carmel's dates when taxes are due and delinquent do not conform to the schedule in general practice in Monterey county and in most cities throughout the state.

So vigorous were some of the remarks of the taxpayers, that the council instructed City Attorney Peter Ferrante to make a study of the ordinance governing the subject with a view of rearranging the dates to conform.

Among the comments quoted by Heffling was H. L. Dormody's: "I suppose you do this to everyone."

Edith H. Long of Berkeley: "I was very much surprised and annoyed to receive your note in regard to tax delinquency. Every other tax bill we pay is delinquent Dec. 5, and I had not noticed the

Irene Alexander To Talk on Novel At Club Meeting

By MRS. J. W. GETSINGER

At the general meeting of the Carmel Woman's Club which will be held on Monday afternoon, January 4th at 2:30 p.m., Miss Irene Alexander will give a talk on Modern Fiction, especially the novel in its relationship to the trends of thought and the philosophy of the time.

Miss Alexander is a successful author herself; among her published books being "Villa Caprice," "Crooked Alley," Ninth Week," and "Revenge Can Wait." During the years that she was a resident of New York, she ghosted a history of the city for the Bank of the Manhattan Company and wrote the lyric for a song by Frederick Loewe, the Viennese composer, which was featured by Dennis King during the New York run of "Petticoat Fever." Her lyrics appear in the published version of Remsen's "Inchling," and the C. C. Birchard Company

POTTER AND BURT

Zenas L. Potter, a Carmel man, homesick but serving cheerfully in an important government post, writing from Chicago to the Pine Cone of his work with the OPA, and his new job with the Civilian Rubber Program, gives an estimate of Leon Henderson which is especially valuable as it comes from a man who has worked with him. His letter appears on the feature page of this issue.

In the second feature page column we develop goose pimples as we go supernatural in a true experience short-short by Frederick Burt.

Another Seventh Grade Father on Carmel Council

Five men sat around the council table Wednesday night which seemed like a crowd. For weeks there have been only three. With Mayor Keith Evans in the army and Councilman Fred McIndoe in the hospital, McCreery, Rowntree and Godwin ran the city by themselves, a harassed triumvirate.

Wednesday night Fred McIndoe was back in his fire-commissioner's chair. And a new councilman, L. L. Dewar, sat in McCreery's old chair vacated when the council asked McCreery to move into Keith Evans' place at the head of the table as mayor pro tem. The pro tem was removed at this same meeting of five, and it's now Mayor P. A. McCreery, chosen by the other members of the council to preside over their meetings and over the welfare of Carmel.

Dewar will take over McCreery's old job as well as his chair. As street commissioner he becomes right honorable-and-omnipotent master of the chuckholes

Please Don't Ask "Where's the Fire?" When 22 Sounds

Carmel citizens who chase the big red Mack fire truck and the ancient and honorable Laverne as a hobby, are warned not to get on their roller skates when they hear the siren sound 22 four times. It will not indicate a fire—just call to quarters.

Officers of the fire department: William Askew, Paul Funchess, David Machado and Fred Mylar, addressed a letter to the city council Wednesday night asking if they could use the above signal to summon the volunteers to drills and meetings, and the council said "Yes"

Navigation Class On New Adult School Schedule

Continuing most of its previous classes and adding several new ones, the Carmel Adult School will open its second semester on January 4. Classes will be given in the afternoon and evening, with most classes held at Sunset School.

Among the new classes, one which should be of particular interest to young men planning to enter the Navy or the Air Forces is that in Navigation. Mr. Viljoen has had considerable experience and during the day is an instructor at Fort Ord. The class will meet Tuesday evening at 7:30 in Room 2 of Sunset School.

Another new class is the Thursday night beginning Spanish, taught by Mrs. Sylvia Jordan. This section is designed principally for those who have no knowledge of Spanish. Her regular Monday night group will continue as usual.

A new class is Mrs. Poulsen's Nursery School and Study. Attention is called to the fact that this is for both mothers and children. All mothers and their preschool children are invited to meet Monday and Wednesday afternoon at 3:15 in the Sunset

Town Should Consider Building New Post Office at Carmel River Mouth; Greywing Airbus to Come--Some Day

By MALCOLM D. WHITMAN, JR.

Looking across the Carmel River from Santa Lucia avenue, above Carmelo street from the sea, you may, on any given day, see either a fair sized sheet of water, or an anemic vein of water. Those strong green places are bulrushes. What looks like sand is very coarse sand mixed with pebbles and shells.

Whether you see a fair sized sheet of water or not depends on who is winning, some canny men with shovels and a will to lower the water level, or the surf and the waters of the Carmel river with a will to raise the water level.

I have not talked to the men who dig through the guard bar the surf makes out of the coarse sand. Nor have I talked to those people whose houses now face the river from the Carmel side, whose horses graze the meadows when they aren't waterlogged, whose portable pumps draw water from the river in summer, whose caterpillar tractor bulldozer re-arranged some river bottom for some reason a while back, or whose artichokes grew across the river. Nor to those whose maps show it all and are kept up to date.

Those are the people who in their living, deal with the river as it is and as it will be in the part of it you can see from Santa Lucia avenue. (Those human looking specks, incidentally, are seasonal. I happen to have a rhyme about the fishermen, too, and they also deal with the river). But I am sure that none of them think today about the river as I will ask you who read in this letter to think about it. And this I will ask because—

In Waukeegan, Illinois, there exists and grows a corporation called Johnson Motors. And in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, there ex-

School Lunch Room. Mrs. Poulsen will continue two of her other classes, but at new times. 'Nutrition will meet Tuesday and Thursday afternoon at 3:15, and War Time Stitchery will meet Tuesday evening at 7:30 and Friday afternoon at 3:15. All classes will be in the Lunch Room.

Basic Mathematics, which proved so popular last semester, will be repeated with a new instructor, Mr. H. E. Timbers. Although Mr. Timbers has had experience in teaching college math, he promises that the course will not be too difficult. It is primarily a refresher course for men expecting to enter the service, but it is of great value to others as well.

Dr. Sisson will continue his popular course on the Battle of the New Orders. This group, which meets in the Sunset Library Thursday afternoon at 3:30, has been very enthusiastic about the subject. New participants are cordially invited.

The Thursday evening class of Dr. von Urban will continue. One need not be a psychologist to enjoy these talks, and most laymen can profit considerably by a study of the mind. This class, Your Unconscious Mind, meets in the Sunset Library at 7:30.

For those interested in Art, Mrs. Cunningham will maintain her class in oil and water color painting. This group meets on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at 3:30 in Room 15. Mrs. Cunningham also offers a course in Art Appreciation on Monday afternoon at the Art Gallery.

On Thursday evening the High School shop will be available for those who wish to work in light welding or woodwork. Mr. Clayton Schuttish will continue in charge. Ernest Calley will have pottery and woodwork at the Sunset Shop on Monday evenings.

Typing will be offered in Room 7 of the High School. Mr. Lloyd Miller, High School Commercial teacher, will determine next week the number of days this class will be open, depending upon the demand. It is tentatively set for Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

The ever-popular course in creative writing will again have Miss Irene Alexander as the instructor. This group will continue to meet on Tuesday night at 7:30 in Room 3.

For those who wish instruction in Spanish that is slightly in advance of Mrs. Jordan's class, Mr. Donald Craig will continue his intermediate class, meeting Tuesday night at 7:30 in Room 4.

One of the most successful citizenship teachers will again be available. Miss Adelaide Stites will meet her classes on Monday and Thursday at 7:30 in Room 2.

Mrs. Leota Tucker's photography group will again meet on Tuesday and Thursday at 7:30.

Instead of the male chorus, a mixed group for both men and women has been proving popular on Wednesday evenings at 7:30 in Room 5. Mr. R. E. Manhire directs the group.

The discussion group on the World Drama will go on under Mr. Herbert Heron's guidance. The meetings are in the Seven Arts studio on Friday night at 8:00.

A new class: How to Put Words to Work under Edward Kuster is scheduled for Wednesday evening at 7:30 in Sunset Library.

The Sunset gymnasium will be open on Monday and Wednesday nights for basketball practice. Other gym classes are being organized under special arrangements.—R. C. Doerr.

School Starts Monday; One New Teacher

School starts Monday at Sunset and the High School. With the exception of G. W. Getsinger as acting principal at the high school and Mrs. Walter Barry teaching Robert Doerr's seventh grade in the mornings at Sunset, the students will find no change in personnel since the start of the Christmas recess.

Mr. Getsinger has been appointed temporarily to the post of the late Otto Bardarson, and Mrs. Barry is taking the morning period of the seventh grade so that Robert Doerr will have time to devote to his duties as acting principal of Adult School, a position assigned to him to free Mr. Getsinger for the work at the high school.

John White's history class left without a teacher due to his enlistment in the Navy, will be taken by a substitute until a regular teacher can be engaged.

An influx of new students is expected at both Sunset and the high school due to arrival of navy and army families.

Car Registration Starts Saturday

Applications for 1943 motor vehicle registration renewal will be accepted at the Monterey County office of the Department of Motor Vehicles, at the Chamber of Commerce building in Monterey, beginning Saturday, January 2.

The amount of the fee, together with the 1942 registration card, must be presented. The amount due is shown on the lower left-hand corner of the registration card (white slip).

Kenneth Gallagher will be in charge of the Monterey county office.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

On Monday morning, as I passed the Sunset School, I was halted by loud cries of anguish, emanating from a very small damsel, standing forlorn and newly starched in the middle of the school yard. "There's nobody here!" she howled. "They've all gone off and left me!" I was all sympathy. "Who, darling?" "My teacher," she sobbed, "and all the boys and girls . . . ."

"Why, it's vacation," I explained tenderly. The sobs lessened. "Oh," she commented. "I thought there were just four days," and only half comforted she trotted off.—I. A.

Anita Brown Is Back

Anita Brown has returned to Carmel after spending Christmas in San Francisco with her mother.

Thumbs Down On Chanticleer

An amiable settlement is in sight in the Two Months' War of Carmel Woods. The question of shall they or shall they not raise chickens in a restricted area, if so, how many, and what about roosters—a controversy that set neighbor against neighbor with such vigor that the repercussions reached the planning commission in Salins—has arrived at compromise status.

After two public hearings, one in Carmel and one in Salinas at which the commission sought to learn the desires of a majority of the principals, a recommendation was placed on the desk of the County Supervisors by the commission last Monday.

The commission recommends that: the district be rezoned to permit raising of chickens to supplement the family food supply. (One up for the chicken enthusiasts.) That the number of chickens be restricted to 24. (One up for the moderationists — the extremists wanted 50). And no roosters will be allowed. (A big one for the out and out anti-chicken people).

In the interest of sanitation, county board of health rules are to be observed in the keeping of pens, and the chickens are to be restrained to an area at least ten feet from the property line so that those who are sympathetic to chickens will not have to endure the spectacle of their eating the sweetpea blossoms off the vines that decorate their fences.

The supervisors' meeting Saturday will probably set a date for a final public hearing after which, if no new elements enter into the controversy, the compromise settlement is likely to become an ordinance.

Bishop, Carmel Rosicrucian, Quotes Forecast

Future economic upheavals will be avoided by the surplus commodities of all nations being deposited in an international trade pool. Credit at the market value of the commodity will be given the nation having the surplus, which credit must be taken out in purchases from the same pool. This is one of a series of predictions issued by the Rosicrucian Order (AMORC), a philosophical fraternity with international headquarters at San Jose, California. According to William G. Bishop of San Carlos at Sixth, the predictions are not founded upon any fantastic system of divination, but upon an analysis of the trends of the present, and a logical projection of them into the future.

The Rosicrucians, in annual booklets of prophecy issued by them previously, states William G. Bishop, predicted the abdication of King Edward, and that with President Roosevelt there would end the traditional terms of office of American presidents, each of the prophecies at the time causing considerable controversy.

Good Sport at River Mouth

A good run of steel head Saturday brought Carmel fishermen to the mouth of the river. Coming back with a nice catch were Ernie Schweninger, Cliff Le Neve, Harold Johnston, Jimmy Keesling, Ivan and Jimmy Kelsey, Dick Uzell, Kenneth Whitcomb, Donald Dawson, Dexter Whitcomb and Gene Ricketts.

Not getting his fish but among those present was Michael Ricketts, fully equipped with waders and fishing paraphernalia, but he has plenty of time to catch a big one, as he is at present seven years old.

K. Dunham Ritual Dances Well Conceived

By BETTY HORST

Impressions after a Katherine Dunham program are inevitably mixed. The syncopated rhythms, beautiful brown bodies, dissonances of music and the very interesting percussive effects tend to make an original and exciting performance, but, if one is looking for a new note or a contribution to dance as an art, there is none. We all know that the Negro and the American Indian dances are the only dance forms indigenous to America and as such have made a definite contribution to all of our arts. Miss Dunham has done a very interesting thing in super-imposing on the Negro dance the technique of the modern dance, ballet and Oriental. The result in several numbers especially her very beautiful "Rites de Passage" and "Mexican Rumba" is excellent concert material. The "Rites" is a well conceived moving dance dealing with the rituals of any primitive community and Miss Dunham as the Matriarch was superb. Also the Male Puberty Ritual was most exciting.

The rest of her program, although very enjoyable, did not come up to that standard, particularly the "Plantation Dances" and the "Jazz Hot", which are more suited to a night club atmosphere. Miss Dunham moves with great beauty and dignity and her very presence on the stage lifts the level of the performance.

As a choreographer she has a fine flair for stage patterns and climatic stage pictures and her company dance with all the abandon and enjoyment of the negro, which is so infectious to an audience. They all are well trained and it is a pleasure to watch the way their feet seem to caress the floor. Also, their pantomime was excellent.

Lucille Ellis and Talley Beatty are fine artists and their work through the entire program was outstanding. I especially liked Miss Ellis as the Possessed Dancer in "Primitive Rhythms."

Miss Dunham was fortunate in having much of her music composed by Paquita Anderson and although Miss Anderson is not colored she has captured the native feeling and quality of the Negro in her music.

Arthur Schnabel Coming to Curran On January 10

Arthur Schnabel, distinguished pianist, the second on the 1943 Sunday afternoon series of the Opera Association, appears at the Curran Theater in San Francisco Sunday afternoon, January 10. Like so many of the concert celebrities, his career was launched when he was a child of fifteen.

Born in Austria, Schnabel's name was known throughout the continent before he came to the United States in 1930 at the invitation of Serge Koussevitzky to take part in a Brahms festival by the Boston Symphony. He has remained here ever since and he quickly established himself as one of the most popular artists on the American concert stage.

Tickets for the concert are now on sale at Sherman Clay Box Office, EXbrook 8585.

Tiburon, Calif.

Editor, Pine Cone-Cymbal:

I wonder if you will print this? I'm just a lonesome sailor chewing on three Pine Cones sent by a friend. I have been sitting here contemplating de Bruce, Marrs, Nesbitt and Garrott in print. I like Carmel that is the blue-blue water and white sand and all of its complete loveliness—but I've never really possessed much of a curiosity for the inhabitants. It seems there is always something of sterility that sets in when people start to crystallize into artistic groups. Perhaps the MA business is suffering from a little hardening of the musical arteries.

Personally, I have no crowning list of achievements or glorious personal experiences to color my statements with, but I have suffered too long in the world of mediocrity to profess complete ignorance of it. A product of a teacher-factory where mediocrity is encouraged by the mediocre — plenty of work with professionals who have reached the pinnacle of mediocrity (the true robot stage), some incidentally holding good chairs in the S. F. Symphony etc. These don't seem to need encouragement. Somehow they demand and find full expansion of expression, and possess a mania for hard work—they seem to find no necessity for inpiration. They just keep sawing until they expand to the fullest, then suddenly and completely suffer decay and collapse. But the talented! Each new achievement seems to require additional guidance of a new someone with a larger conception, someone who can inspire to a larger unfolding. Is this what the MA is trying to encourage?

I don't know anyone in your neck of the woods so I feel free to expand. Who the devil is David Marrs — "never has the M A C presented a musician devoid of some excellent qualities" — just the sort of excuses one would expect to find from the less spirited. Good grief, qualities like this should exist in abundance in anyone chosen to perform for such an organization, but that still doesn't excuse the lack of the thing such a club is fostering. This fellow Burt seems to resort to a lot of frosty gibbering which lacks sincerity and conviction, but Nesbitt seems to give decent treatment of the subject.

Incidentally, who in the world is Hal Garrott? It might be a good idea for Carmel to start some sort of organization to foster the suppression of people in print who clutter up the page with complete ignorance. It seems Mr. Garrott might do well to suffer a few of the lessons of humility necessary for the growth of an artist — a little sensitivity and applied intelligence it requires to appreciate the works of masters, if he is even to dare to approach such a thing as delicate as our social structure. I don't think mu-

"Matoor Mind" Peggy Has Two Careers

Back in the files of the PINE CONE—in the days when Perry Newberry was editor and Janie Otto wrote a column called "Janie Says," there is a delightful series of humorous comments on village life, illustrated by their author, and entitled "The Matoor Mind." All of the old-timers will remember their author, Peggy Palmer—very young, very slim, clad always in riding breeches. Irrepressible Peggy, who invariably came leaping in with her material just over the deadline and was regularly fired by Perry at the end of each week and just as regularly hired back at the beginning of the next. For Perry and everybody else adored young Peg. She wasn't sure in those days whether art or newspaper work would be her career. Well—she's never deserted art.

An exhibit of her humorous water colors was held this year all during December at the Findlay Galleries in Chicago, not by any means the first showing of her unique work. Her Christmas card, however, would indicate that quite another career has replaced newspaper work. She's Mrs. Sam Burrows now, and the Christmas card is a photograph of the Burrows family. More specifically it announces the arrival last August of the twins, Johnny and Jane. Their five older brothers and sisters are Tommy, Susan, Victor Heiser, Muffin and Jimmy. And Peggy, proudly holding a twin on each arm, looks quite as she did in the role of "The Matoor Mind."

PTA—Red X Tell How to Be Healthy Though Rationed

Food rationing creates a greater need than ever before of healthy, balanced diet for growing children. In recognition of this problem, and the urgency of meeting it wisely, the P.T.A. and the Red Cross are joining forces on Friday afternoon, January 13th at 2:30 p.m. in the Sunset School Auditorium. Under the banner of "Vegetables for Victory—Better Food for Better Health—Build for Peace NOW"—Mrs. Peter Burk, Program Chairman for the P.T.A. and Mrs. John E. Abernethy, Chairman of Nutrition for the Carmel Red Cross, have prepared a program that no housewife can afford to overlook.

Main speaker for the afternoon will be Miss Amelia Samson, graduate dietician and widely known lecturer from the Home-Makers' Bureau in Oakland. A moving picture: "Meat and Romance," will be shown — in line with the government program for spreading authoritative information on diets, especially on the buying, cooking and nutritional value of foods.

A further feature of the afternoon will be the singing by Rachel Morton of Mrs. Stuart Haldorn's composition, "America Today," with the author herself as accompanist.

THIS CALLS FOR A WARM RESPONSE

Now that chill breezes are sweeping up and down the coast, and many of the uniformed men stationed at outposts are still housed in tents, awaiting more comfortable quarters, a call has gone out for that unused oil heater that may be stored in attic or garage. If the donor cannot bring it himself to the Carmel USO, Jim Cooke will send a truck to pick it up.

Miracle Play At Mission

The Christmas play, "Babe of Bethlehem", sponsored by the Carmel Mission and postponed out of respect for the Otto Bardarson Memorial services, will be given Sunday afternoon, January 3rd, at 2:30. As in the case of the mediaeval miracle plays, it will be enacted in the Mission itself. The cast, composed of Carmel high school students, was directed by the Catachist Sisters, and the public is cordially invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wermuth and their son are spending a two weeks' vacation in San Francisco.

Julie Heyneman

By UNA JEFFERS

The death of Julie Heyneman in San Francisco yesterday afternoon saddened her many friends in this village. She was a brilliant woman who won distinction in many fields beside her own particular one, landscape and portrait painting. She was a journalist and novelist, and the author of a very sensitive biography of the sculptor, Arthur Putnam. She was an energetic officer in the English Speaking Union. Five years of her life at the time of the first world war were devoted to aiding war victims in Belgium, France and England. Only last year she collected a large sum to outfit the Oxford Ambulance Unit in memory of Charles Mills Gayley.

Up to her last days her eagerness to discuss critical reviews in foreign journals was stimulating and provocative.

Some months ago she spent a few days in Carmel and as she started back to San Francisco she turned and very definitely took leave of this place, saying she had been coming here for forty years and loved it as well as any spot on earth.

without benefit of sufficient oil and gravel to repair them (war conditions). But in making him street commissioner, the council relented to the extent of agreeing that Mayor McCreery will continue to take the kicks about the chuckholes, since his office is handy, people are accustomed to come there to recount their troubles and McCreery is used to listening to them and explaining about the no-oil-no-gravel situation.

Dewar is secretary of the Coast Counties Land Title Company in Monterey, for seven years a resident of Carmel, past president of the Kiwanis Club and vice president of the Monterey Peninsula Country Club—and he is a SEVENTH GRADE FATHER. Up until now Mayor McCreery was the only councilman who could sun himself in the reflected glory of Sunset's Seventh Grade, by grace of being Lew Earl's father, but now he has to share honors with Dewar, who is father of Rod.

COUNCIL MISCELLANY

Lra B. Taylor, city treasurer, was granted permission to transfer $109.62 from the general fund to the Mission street improvement fund at the Council Meeting Wednesday night. He was then instructed to close the fund after the transfer was made and to make all future deposits into the general fund.

Mrs. Karl G. Rendtorff's reappointment to the library board was made official by resolution.

The garbage contract was finally signed.

Ellen Habenicht was granted permission to transfer her business license for the Sketch Box to Herbert Heron, and the USO was given permission to hang a sign in front of their office on Dolores street.

Les Overhulse's resignation from the Police Department, effective December 31, was accepted.

Benny Back but Not Looking for Bach

Benny Bufano was about town Wednesday but he was not looking for Bach's head.

"Kids," he said, "I'm lining up kids in Pat Cunningham's class to do posters for the Bureau of War Information."

"So, you're not in the army, Benny?"

"I'm in the Bureau of War Information. I was in the army and then they found out who I was and they took me out of the army and put me in this. I come down from San Francisco from time to time to line up kids to do posters."

By kids Benny doesn't mean kids, he means grown ups, adult artists. Everybody is "kids" to Benny. He apparently has forgotten about Bach's head which was stolen from the stainless steel statue of Bach while it was on exhibit here during the Bach Festival. On his mind now is a new poster he has just done for the government, copies of which he assured us the Pine Cone would have as soon as they are available.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The Garand semi-automatic rifle, which is the standard issue today for the U. S. army, is superior to the old Springfield rifle in many respects. We literally need millions of these fast shooting powerful rifles to equip our army. They cost $85 each and are being manufactured at the rate of one a minute. They fire sixty 30-calibre shells a minute.

Every one of the 40,000,000 employed persons in America could easily buy one of these rifles for the army. Not that we need that many, but the reserve could go into shells and other much needed supplies.

Town Should Consider Building New Post Office at Carmel River Mouth; Greywing Airbus to Come--Some Day

ists and grows a corporation called Evinrude Motors. And partly because these corporations have managed to exist busily for some time, there are in Carmel, to my personal present knowledge, at least three examples of what these corporations make, two Evinrude, one Johnson outboard motors. The people who deal with the lower part of the river probably know this, but they do not know that future Johnson and Evinrude motors are going to run effectively on under two inches of water.

Currently answering his mail from La Jolla, California, in his time out from serving the war effort (Keep 'Em Flying Dep't) is Captain Frank T. Courtney, recently publicized in Aviation magazine as an aircraft expert advocating a departure from present practices in the shaping of "waterplane" hull bottoms. I don't think they knew that waterplanes designed by Captain Courtney or his disciples will be quiet airplanes, or that they will operate most effectively from "waterports," which need provide no more than six inches of water, preferably a bit more, if the bottom is hard (which the bottom of Carmel river is not).

The corporations I have written of have no present designs on that part of the Carmel River you see from Santa Lucia avenue. Nor has Captain Courtney. Those who plan for Carmel, therefore can easily, without feeling counter pressures, shush down discussion of a future in which a film of water lying handy may make a tremendous difference to the pattern in which the town grows. There are, at present, owners of the basin land, and a game reserve condition for ducks, and the horses mentioned before.

But the land lies pretty flat over quite an area in that part of Carmel river. Some of the rising land contiguous is suitable for erection of buildings and cutting of terraces. A bulldozer such as the one I saw snorting diesel smoke above the riverbed, or a carry-all, which smells and sounds the same but has more to it, could skin the topsoil off the basin land and emplace it on terraces higher up. Small dams across some gullies up the river might abet San Clemente Dam in "harvesting the rain crop" and evening out the river flow into what, on calm days, might be a mirror of shining water reflecting a populous part of then Carmel.

Should Carmel decide to look at itself now and again in such a mirror of water, on days when the waters were ruffled, windmills (Putnam type) on the hills might raise some water to new type half round sluices at the terrace levels. The flow of water in the sluices moving mechanical sluice heavers busily back and forth distributing the water justly to the land.

On days when it was a mirror to Carmel, such a sheet of water might heliograph San Francisco and Los Angeles. The Greywing Airbus Co., then operating the new type waterplanes from depots in both cities, would have to vie, branch with branch, in luxury of fitment of its "Mission Specials."

On the day when/if those who plan for Carmel see fit to—hum! how does one lay the cornerstone of a sheet of water?—they might as well decide to insist on "a decor in keeping with the spirit of Carmel" for the "Mission Specials." And actually lay the cornerstone of the coming postoffice building.

Because, and somewhat by these presents, Carmel may soon become aware that it can have a "waterport." That techniques developing during the years can make Carmel River "navigable water" of a kind around which would surely form new laws and customs.

And as/if the waterplanes sweep in, low and hushed-like above the guard bar, to set their flaps and waterbrakes for the settling, and triumphant swish for final arrival. Why—well, people, of course, will want to pick up their mail on their way home.

Bob McMenamin in Gold Coast Cast

"The Convict's Daughter," which drew such a record crowd at the First Theater, Monterey, on New Year's Eve, shows again tomorrow night in California's 1847 adobe. The Troupers of the Gold Coast are playing their heart-throb old melodrama but three more Saturday evenings, closing on January 16.

Bob McMenamin, home for the holidays, will be seen in the olio, which draws more laughs with each weekend performance. Telegrams and holiday greetings from Troupers absent in the service and defense duties have poured in to the First Theater from all parts of the United States. Thirty-seven of the Troupers of the Gold Coast are now in the services.

The melodramas and attending olios at the First Theater have priority rating for undiluted entertainment and rollicking fun.

THIS IS THE MOMENT!

1943 IS HERE...

Now is the time . . . .

THIS IS THE MOMENT—for all of us to make a solemn pledge that nothing shall be left undone to win the war—and to win it quickly.

The Penney Company regards its more than 1600 stores, its more than 40,000 men and women associates, as a group of tremendous vitality and force in the war effort. In addition, helping shoulder to shoulder, we include the thousands of people who supply us with what we sell, who in mills and factories all over the land produce with only one thought in mind: the speeding up of the war effort. But most important of all, are the millions who are our customers. They know that no sacrifice is too great for our common cause—and they make it—willingly and gladly.

The Penney Company's job has always been to supply typical American families (people who live simply but well) with clothing and home furnishings at substantial savings.

Those American Families are now the Home Front!

It is their job to send an ever-increasing avalanche of supplies to those who are fighting our battles on the far-flung war fronts of the world.

Those American families, that Home Front, can count on us to continue our efforts to supply the good American merchandise they must have to keep fit for their great task. We will continue, unremittingly, our efforts to secure their needs at savings: Today it is more than good sense and good management to save—Thrift and Savings are now an imperative duty.

WHAT DO YOU MAKE OF IT?

By FREDERICK BURT

With a screeching of brakes and grinding of rubber, Mack's big open car jerked to a stop just as one of his front wheels, still spinning, hung over the abutment of a bridge spanning the flooding Saline river. It was no accident. Mack had intended to miss the bridge and plunge into the swirling water below. He had chosen the spot carefully so that his desperate leap would not appear as deliberate suicide. For hours he had been driving about the moon-drenched countryside gradually summoning courage and then at four o'clock in the morning his decision had been made. With jaws set he turned towards the river bridge and opened the throttle. There it loomed—the bridge, the dark water, oblivion; nearer, nearer—a hundred feet —fifty—twenty-five! A quick turn—

And then a shattering, piercing shriek of human fear ripped through his mind.

Involuntarily Mack straightened up and jammed on the brakes. The car stopped. Had someone seen him? Had he struck someone? With sweat pouring down his face and his body shaking as with ague, he backed his car into the roadway and looked about. No sound save the rushing of the water under the bridge. He called a weak, "Who's there?" No answer. The countryside was at pre-dawn peace. His resolution spent, he drove home to Salina and to another day in court defending himself against a charge of embezzlement. He was exhausted. He had been driving all that Thursday night.

Mack was an officer of the principal bank of Salina. Bank examiners had suddenly discovered a large shortage. Mack could offer no explanation and was charged with embezzlement. Conviction seemed certain. The town was stunned. Even the president of the bank sat, grim faced, day after day at the trial, offering no help.

During the trial Mack's loyal friends planned relaxing week ends for him. One of these was a trip to Wichita where mutual friends were having their first spring picnic. But Mack was in no picnic mood. Mrs. Finney, a vivacious matron of the group, noticed his strained manner, separated him from the group for a walk. They reached a bridge over a small stream and Mack halted, staring into the water. Mrs. Finney's chatter brought no reply. The man was not looking at the water—he was staring at it.

"What's on your mind?"

"You know."

"Yes. But no one believes it."

"Thanks. But in a few days I'll be a convicted man. Friday will see the end. Prison—prison. No. No one will ever see me behind prison bars." His voice was barely audible. "I have freedom through Thursday—and—then —" Quietly he turned and rejoined the picnic group. Mrs. Finney stood alone for awhile impressed by something other than the words she had heard.

Friday morning the president of the bank went into court at Salina and confessed that he was the real embezzler. Mack had told him of his attempt at suicide the night before and why it had failed . . . that unearthly scream.

Thursday night Mrs. Finney and her husband had gone to bed as usual. At four o'clock in the morning a horrible shriek awoke Mr. Finney and the entire household. Mrs. Finney was sitting up in bed rigid with fear, unable to talk. Her eyes were staring, her hands closed so firmly that her nails cut into her palms. After family and servants had worked for two hours calming her, she managed to tell of a dream—seeing a man speeding down a moonlit road. The man was Mack. He was nearing a bridge. He was going to miss it. She screamed. The car stopped — one spinning wheel over the em-

POETRY

THE NEW YEAR

Draw back the curtain from the young New Year!
There is no stain upon its dawning grace—
There is no shadow of regret nor fear
To mar the flawless beauty of its face.
The past is spent; the future waits in seed;
The moment is untrammeled and unique—
This sky, these silent woods, this winter weed,
Contain all wisdom known, yet do not speak.

Into this light now streaming from the hill
The spirit walks serene and newly shriven.
Within this air so pure and morning-still
Lie all the potencies of hell or heaven.
Here in this hour of which we are a part,
Events await the edict of the heart.

—DORA HAGEMEYER.

SEA HOMING

Salt on the wind and a full tide flowing,
Dusk on the wind and a heart swung free;
What does it matter where I'm going
As long as this is a part of me?

As long as the sails are taut with wonder
And the ropes are coiled to a strange wind's song,
While the sea is rest and the sea is thunder
And I have come back where I belong.

—GILEAN DOUGLAS.

THE DIGNITY OF MAN

We have been laggard, too, we have been wrong,
We have not broadened to our full estate,
Tasks in arrears, and work undone too long
When they called to us; we have been tardy, late.

We winced from sores as not of our concern,
We shut our eyes, each man for his own lar,
Deaf to his fellow's cry, bleak to his burn,
We stood aside while he tended his scar.

We have not carried our full weight; contained,
Callous and hard: chary of hand and heart,
Which should be free, have been withheld and stained;
Their cross was not our cross, their part our part.
But we will mend this for the dignity
We first gave man will some day set him free.

—ALEX R. SCHMIDT.

REVIEWS

UNION LEAGUE CLUB OF CHICAGO,
65 WEST JACKSON BOULEVARD,
DECEMBER 22, 1942

CARMEL PINE CONE
Gentlemen:

It may interest my friends in Carmel that I recently resigned as a member of the Office of Price Administration Industry Council to join the Office of Rubber Director in charge of Civilian Rubber Programs. In a sense it will be a continuation of my work for O.P.A. where, during the year I served on the Industry Council I ran the Dealer Tire Return Plan (6,250,000 new passenger car tires and 7,000,000 new tubes into a government pool) the Car Financing Plan (financing 500,000 passenger cars in dealer hands and requiring their proper storage) and the Idle Tire Purchase Plan. This latter plan has brought 11,000,000 tires into a government pool and will do much to make it possible to keep all cars provided with tires for essential mileage as determined by gasoline rationing.

With the Rubber Director I shall be responsible for dealing with all civilian supply and rubber rationing. It's a challenging responsibility. I only hope I can serve my country as well as I want to.

Leon Henderson is one of Washington's most colorful characters. I admire and have an affection for him. He has served the country far better than the people believe. Already $19,600,000,000 has been saved in direct war costs over what they would have been had prices advanced as rapidly as they did in the last war. And $4,500,000,000 has been saved to the buying public. But Leon is a terrible salesman of the job he did. His public relations have been atrociously handled and he antagonized Congress. He influenced business profits more than any man in American history and never was there opportunity for corruption equal to that found in O.P.A. operations. Yet there has not been a breath of scandal. The reason for this is that Leon put O.P.A. largely in the control of economists from our universities. He mistrusted business men for disinterestedness but he forgot to mistrust the economists for being inexperienced. Their errors in judgment put him in bad odor with the public, opened up a point of attack for his enemies. Actually he is himself a straight thinker with a mind that brushes aside non-essentials. He is popularly thought to be a theorist, but he is anything but that. Some think him a radical. Actually he is a well-based liberal. He should be popular for his simple democracy—no dog whatever—and for his fearless courage. But bad handling of his public relations has given the public a totally false picture of the man.

When Leon resigned the stock market had its biggest day for months. Wall Street bet that when he went out inflation would set in in earnest. I hope not, but often Wall Street is right. I doubt if any man is as fitted as he to fight the battle against inflation, under the discouraging handicaps of a bloc controlled government.

Mrs. Potter and I are looking forward eagerly to the day when the war ends and we may entrain for Carmel. We long for Carmel peace, in the stress and strain of Washington life. But in war time one can't be a chooser. I only hope I can serve my country well.

I'm in Chicago waiting to take the train for Omaha where I'm to meet Mr. Jeffers and a lot of farmers on gasoline for the farm problems. I've had dinner with a friend in the Union League Club in which many fine paintings are exhibited. A lovely seascape by Paul Dougherty confronts me as I write — in the lounge. Down in the lobby is a fine painting by William Ritchel. They make me rather proud of Carmel.

Sincerely,
Zenas L. Potter.

Red Cross Bulletins

By FRANCES DOUD

Red Cross has a new service which must have come as a happy surprise to a number of Carmel families on New Year's Day, families who have relatives and friends stationed on distant shores and at far corners of the earth from whom news is always anxiously awaited but often, alas, sadly lacking. Imagine, then, the thrill of receiving from one of these a lovely box of flowers and a card of greeting for the New Year, just as though he were only around the corner! This is how it worked. Carmel Headquarters received one day this week a long telegram from Charlotte Johnson, Home Service Director at National Headquarters in Washington, D. C., requesting them to purchase flowers in a certain amount and deliver them to these certain families or individuals, enclosing the greetings which followed and also a greeting from the Red Cross. The men had put in these requests and paid for the flowers through Red Cross wherever they might be; the information was sent to Washington Headquarters, and from there distributed to the various chapters. Mrs. Hobart Prince was assigned the job of carrying out the instructions, and the Motor Corps did the delivering.

While we're on the subject of Home Service, that department of Carmel Chapter received a short while ago a wonderful contribution of clothing and shoes which was anonymous. Among the things were two odd shoes — that is, one only of two different pairs. One is a black suede and kid oxford, an Arnold authentic, and the other a tan kid high cut pump with a flap. Both are practically new and very handsome, and could certainly be put to good use IF we had their mates. We are writing this in the hope that this generous donor will see it, and send us the other two shoes.

New Classes to Start Soon

Four new Red Cross Classes in as many different branches of Red Cross work are being organized to start directly after the first of the year. All are of vital importance, both to the war effort and to civilians as individuals.

The first is a Nurses' Aide class to start the first week in January and for which at least one more recruit is needed. So much has been said of this very important service that it seems hardly necessary to repeat. But the need is growing greater and greater and there is no possible doubt that the women joining it are serving their country. They are helping to relieve the acknowledged and most acute shortage of graduate nurses by taking over from them appropriate and authorized duties in hospitals and clinics. It is a trained and disciplined service consisting of an 80 hour course and at the conclusion of the course the Volunteer Nurses Aide wears the blue uniform and cap jauntily authorized by the American Red Cross and the United States Office of Civilian Defense. Red Cross Nurses Aides accept no remuneration for their services and they give 150 hours of service yearly on hospital wards. Carmel Chapter is justifiably proud of its present group of Nurses Aides, and so much have their services been appreciated by hospital staff and patients alike they are begging for more of the same. Please sign up at once at Carmel Chapter headquarters.

The second class is a new course in Home Nursing, to start on Tuesday, January 5th at 2 p.m. in the Red Cross building on Dolores street. Miss Noyes will be the instructor. Home Nursing is open to everyone and is of great importance to women with families. It is essentially a family and not a public service. It will teach you how to take a temperature, how to give a bed bath, how to observe symptoms, how to make a patient comfortable, how to care for children when they have the usual and almost inevitable children's diseases, how to care for older people and convalescents in the home. Perhaps most important of all, it teaches you to follow a doctor's instructions when there is no trained nurse available — which is certain to be the case in the very near future. For your own good and the good of your family, sign up for this course as soon as possible.

The third is an Advanced First Aide Course which begins on Monday, January 4th at the Community Church at 1:15 p.m. and meets on Mondays and Fridays thereafter from 1:15 to 3:15 for six meetings. You must have completed your Standard First Aid to be eligible for this course. Mrs. Ruth Gorman will instruct.

By far the most important course being offered by the Red Cross at the present time in point of timeliness for civilian education is the Nutrition course. Everyone is eligible and everyone who intends to go on eating for the duration can profit by the knowledge gained thereby. It was announced in this column two weeks ago that a nationwide campaign would start after the first of the year to train at least one nutritioner for every home but even we did not realize the full significance of the movement at the time. Since then everyone has either read or heard over the radio a great deal about food rationing and has some idea of what this country will have to face. You will be infinitely better prepared to face it when you have taken the Nutrition Course the Red Cross is now offering. Register at Carmel Red Cross headquarters as soon as possible, for the course will start soon after the first of the year.

ORDS and ENDS

By ELEANOR MINTON JAMES

Over KDON a Fort Ord dance band, from the stage of the Monterey U.S.O. made the first of its weekly broadcasts Saturday night.

From now on the USO with important announcements of current happenings, as well as the Fort Ord band will be on the air over KDON every Saturday from 8:45 to 9 p.m. Thanks to the courtesy of Mr. Walters, manager of KDON.

Jackie Hodges and Mingdon Sheets were the two junior hostesses invited with Mr. and Mrs. James Cooke, "Skipper" Ackroyd, Peggie Reiss to represent the Carmel USO at a big dinner party given for them at East Garrison last week. Sort of a case of the army turning the table in the hospitality game.

Kathryn Taggart has just been appointed Director of the USO-Travelers' Aid Service here on the peninsula. Now that Peggy Wood is in Washington getting Red Cross training preparatory to oversees work. Fort Ord men find it very convenient to have the Travelers' Aid meet their families or sweethearts at the station when they cannot get off duty to get to the train themselves.

Carmel not only donated enough gifts for over 1,000 service men spending Christmas at the Carmel USO. They also gave several hundred to a bunch of Kentucky and Ozark mountaineers far from home, newly arrived here at a local military outpost.

One Fort Ord private after being entertained with other service men at the Noel Arnold home in Pebble Beach (where he had also been for Thanksgiving) and ending up at the Carmel USO festivities made the announcement as he climbed into the lorry headed back for the barracks, "Except for being away from home it's the grandest Christmas I ever had."

Tom Treanor's dramatic Cairo articles — the most human and most easily visualized in a concrete way of all the war stories — have to be slightly expurgated by the San Francisco Chronicle where they are appearing. Tom Treanor is not only a California newspaper man he is a Los Angeles Times overseas correspondent. So when mentioning his U.S.A. newspaper connections the San Francisco paper is careful each time to leave out the "Los Angeles" part. It would be anathema for them to have to print the Los Angeles Times where he is concerned so they always just put it vaguely, "The Times."

San Francisco hotels and restaurants may not be serving butter any more at all. But there is one place where service men can get butter on their hot cakes for breakfast and that's the San Francisco USO.

One sailor walking into Monterey from Pacific Grove in the pouring rain last week never was picked up. Said he guessed Monterey was a soldiers' town all right. He added, though, only army trucks passed him.

A.W.V.S. Xmas Party

The Officers' Club at Pine Inn, gaily decorated with cypress boughs and holly berries, was the scene of a festive open house for officers in all branches of the service on Christmas Day, under the sponsorship of the A.W.V.S. Christmas carols were sung, to accompaniments played by Mrs. Eulalie Buttleman of Chicago, and Mrs. Jay Elder of San Jose, in Carmel as guests of Mr. Julian de Cordova. Arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Howard E. Smith, and assisting her were her daughter, Mrs. Leland Cagwyn, the Mesdames Sidney Fish, Vera Shepard, P. H. Mix, Elizabeth Goodrich, B. G. Chynoweth, Harrison Godwin, Jack Crowley, George Muller, Grace Howden, Rama Stearns, B. F. Stone and Miss Mary Jepp. Donations from the local merchants and public-spirited citizens contributed largely to the success of the party.

ALL SAINTS' CHURCH

Next Sunday at 8:00 a.m. the Service of the Holy Communion. At 9:30 a.m. the Church School and at 11:00 a.m. Choral Service with Sermon Message by the Rector, Rev. C. J. Hulsewe. Offertory Solo: The Lord's Prayer (A. H. Malotte), Soloist Mrs. Dorothy Mulkey. Seasonal Hymns will be part of the Worship Service in which the full Vested Choir will participate. Visitors to Carmel and more especially Service Men and their families are invited to join our Parish family in this first service in the New Year. On Wednesday, Jan. 6, the Monthly Luncheon of the Women's Auxiliary will be held at 12:30 p.m. in the Parish House — under the Chairmanship of the newly elected President, Mrs. C. Fitz-Howard Jarvis. Dr. Rudolph Von Urban, the well-known psychologist who is the Advisor to the Monterey County Welfare Committee will speak on the theme: "Dr. Von Urban Looks at Youth." Reservations for the luncheon must be made by phoning Carmel 230 not later than Monday evening, January 4.

SUNDAY, JAN. 3, 1943

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered at the Church of the Wayfarer on Sunday morning next. The sermon theme by Dr. James E. Crowther will be, "What Will You Have?", a suggestion for personal enrichment during the new year. Margaret Sherman Lea will play the following organ selections: "Prayer," and "Ave Maria," by Schubert; "Communion," Purvis, and "Carillon," Mulet. These open Communion Services are always deeply significant, especially at the beginning of a new year. Visitors are cordially invited. The service begins at 11 o'clock.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

In response to the President's request that New Year's Day, January 1, 1943, be observed as a day of prayer, First Church of Christ, Scientist, Carmel, will hold a brief service on Friday, January 1st, at eleven o'clock. This service is by authority of the Board of Directors of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

In all Christian Science churches, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston Massachusetts, a Lesson-Sermon will be read Sunday, January 3, on the subject "God." The Golden Text will be: "Unto the King eternal, immortal, invisible, the only wise God, be honour and glory for ever and ever," (I Tim. 1: 17).

Bible selections will include the following passage from Jeremiah 9: 23, 24: "Thus saith the Lord, Let not the wise man glory in his wisdom, neither let the mighty man glory in his might, let not the rich man glory in his riches: But let him that understandeth and knoweth me, that I am the Lord which exercise loving kindness, judgment, and righteousness, in the earth: for in these things I delight, saith the Lord."

Passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included, which read as follows: "The true understanding of God is spiritual . . . The Jewish tribal Jehovah was a man-projected God, liable to wrath, repentance, and human changeableness. The Christian Science God is universal, eternal, divine Love, which changeth not and causeth no evil, disease, nor death," pp. 275, 140).

sic flourished without great thought and intense effort — it doesn't seem likely that a sound economic structure can be built without some of the same sweat. I shudder at the thought of the musical mess that would have resulted if music had been allowed to develop in the loose way Mr. Garrott seems to find sufficient for treating such a gigantic problem. It would seem Mr. Garrott might muster a few grains of intelligence and formulate a few sound conclusions before bursting into print in pointless composition on such a knotty problem. He seems to forget that many humans are coming to a very horrible and unfitting climax because of such loose thinking.

Carmel Pine Cone-Cymbal:—

Just a line to you and all my friends in Carmel to wish all a very Happy New Year.

I would be very happy to hear from any friends I have in Carmel. Letters to men in the Service are more welcome than anyone outside can imagine. So—if any of you have any friends in the Army, Navy, Marines, etc., please write to them.

Wishing all of you much peace and happiness in the year to come, I am—

Dear Mrs. Cook:

Would you help us to express our thanks and sincere appreciation to all the women who so graciously and lovingly responded to our call for help in making a Christmas to be remembered for a fine group of soldiers at Fort Ord?

If only those who gave of their time, money and cheer could have seen that command car actually loaded and piled high with gift packages, and as one of our soldiers said, "Aw, gee! just look at the beautiful wrapping and ribbons—that took time!"

As the car pulled away from the Civilian Defense office we who had loaded over 1296 gift packages in it realized that without the interest and kindliness of the women of the women's auxiliary of Civilian Defense and all others who entered into the Christmas spirit, the job could never have been done. I say "job" but speaking personally, and I feel sure that for all of us in the A.W.V.S. it was no job in any sense of the word, but a most thrilling and beautiful experience, not only thinking of the soldier, with more than one present prepared for him, but thinking of so many generous people who responded to another call when so much had been asked of them already. I quote from Lt. Col. John T. Webb's letter:

"Although away from home and loved ones, the men were made happy by the realization that sustaining them, in their efforts, is an America that cares."

And let me thank you for bringing our appeal to the notice of the people, and your interest in us since our inception last April. Best wishes for your success and happiness in the New Year.

Gratefully yours.
Mary Jepp.

Blanche Yurka in New Play at Geary

Signalized by critical and popular acclaim as one of America's greatest actresses, Blanche Yurka returns to the stage, following an absence of four years, as the star of Jess Smith's production, "The Barber Had Two Sons," a play in three acts by James Hogan and Thomas Duggan, staged by Melville Burke.

Two of these four seasons, the distinguished actress devoted to what eventuated as a triumphal tour of the country with her own "One Woman Show." During the course of these vivid presentations and finely limned characterizations Miss Yurka offered as star and sole interpreter of the drama classics, glowing encomiums were bestowed upon her brilliant performances of scenes, many of which she already had made famous in Broadway productions.

In addition to re-enacting masterpieces of Ibsen (Hedda Gabler), Shakespeare (The Merchant of Venice), Aristophanes (Lysistrata), Sophocles (Electra), Blanche Yurka presented scenes from the more modern offerings of a number of the New York Theater Guild's popular and successful plays.

And while Miss Yurka's interpretation of the role of "The Nurse, in Katherine Cornell's production of "Romeo and Juliet," was greatly praised, her performance of Sophocles' Electra, at the Greek Temple in Berkeley, California, 1937, has been acclaimed an epic of dramatic acting.

Blanche Yurka's last appearance on the legitimate stage previous to starring in "The Barber Had Two Sons," was in Bruckner's "Gloriana."

For the past two seasons, Blanche Yurka has devoted her acting talents to stellar roles in all-star screen plays. Her final Cinema performance, before deciding on "The Barber Had Two Sons" as a vehicle to bring about her return to the theater, was as 'Citizen' Heidrick in "The Hangman"—a role said to overshadow even her great performance of Mme. DeFarge in "The Tale of Two Cities."

City Council Bowed Down By Tax Woes

date of Nov. 5 on yours. I supposed I was paying well ahead of time. Why have you made this different ruling?"

Barbara H. Alden, Palo Alto: "Carmel WOULD have a different date from every other place in the U.S.A.!"

Eric Schmidt wrote from Ione, California: "It is a wonder why you change the date for paying of taxes every year. Is it so you can 'crack down' on some unsuspecting tax-payer? Why do you not carry out and keep one date every year. It was just by chance I discovered this morning it being due Nov. 5. I think this is raw."

The councilmen sighed: They'd changed the date originally in the hope of pleasing the citizens and easing the strain on the taxpayers' pocket books so they would not have to dig down for all their taxes at once. But if they want the date changed back so it coincides with delinquency dates throughout the state, the council decided to see what can be done about it.

of Boston has also published a children's operetta "The Purple Pigeon" for wihch she wrote both the book and lyrics. A second operetta is now on the press. A play, "The Greatest Show on Earth", on which Miss Alexander collaborated with Vincent Duffey, was given a Broadway production in 1937-8.

Following her graduation from the University of California, Irene Alexander coached dramatics in the San Jose High School and was a member of the class under Maurice Browne with wihch Edward Kuster opened the Golden Bough Theater. Then followed travel abroad, and residence in New York. At present she is a member of the Pine Cone Cymbal staff and a teacher of Creative Writing in the Carmel Adult School.

With her wide experience and interesting manner, Miss Alexander will give the club members a delightful afternoon. Perhaps she will even break down and tell the members the deep, dark secret of how to write a book which will be published.

A social hour with tea will follow the program. Miss May Nally and Miss Amy Campbell will pour.

On Wednesday morning, January 6th at 10:30 a.m. the regular Women's Club war work section will meet at the Red Cross headquarters.

"Doc." Staniford as Santa Claus, giving out gifts to soldiers at the Carmel USO Christmas party.

CHRISTMAS AT CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA USO

By ELEANOR MINTON JAMES

Doc Staniford made a wonderful Santa Claus for the army and navy men at the Carmel USO. What with his Kris Kringle twinkle, his humor, his pack bursting with presents and his Christmas patter.

Doc handed out hundreds and hundreds of nice presents to the service men from Fort Ord and the Presidio of Monterey and various military outposts. In fact there were about 1,075 men who had something out of the Carmel Christmas bag; this was filled by Carmel people who had donated so generously, making possible this Yuletide gift giving. The multitude of presents were assembled and arranged for by Mrs. B. H. Cory and her committee.

Mrs. Stearns headed the list of donors with 160 gifts. So enthusiastic was the spirit of giving it would be impossible to list the names. Hundreds of gifts were handed in anonymously—brought to the door with "this is for the boys."

The USO Christmas tree was extraordinarily beautiful. Hand picked by Jim Cooke who thanks to Mr. Charles Olmstead of Del Monte and Mr. Jack Buttle of the Pacific Grove Seventeen Mile gate, was able to cruise around Del Monte woods in a car to choose a uniquely symetrical one. The tree he finally decided on stood all alone in the middle of a field—eventually to be cleared for residences—so it had been happily touched by the sun on every side, its thickness and grace all pleasantly balanced. No wonder it showed up such a stunning Christmas tree.

Carmel loaned yards and yards of electric lighting for the tree and gave many bright blue, red, silver and gold bulbs. Mrs. Willard McGraw assisted by Mrs. Ernie Hill had charge of decorating it—that is with the Fort Ord boys who got a big kick out of stringing pop corn and cranberries.

And food—it was a tremendous Christmas feast. Turkeys, hams, candys, mince pies, all the goodies kids and grown-ups dream of for Christmas Day. Mrs. Ritter Holman was head of the committee who had to see about collecting all this huge spread of holiday victuals for the horde of service men swarming to the Carmel USO. And they did a great job. Miss Peggy Chamberlain was in charge of its preparation.

Among those on the list donating Christmas food were:

Mrs. Herbert Heron, Miss Alma Edler, Mrs. Clair Foster, Mrs. George Wishart, Mrs. Mary Solari, Mrs. Whitney Palache, Mrs. I. B. Winslow, Miss Baine, Mrs. John B. Dennis, Anna Campbell, Mrs. Mey Gift, Countess C. Kinnoull, Mrs. Ellis Roberts, Mrs. T. F. Sourisseau, Mrs. C. Chapel Judson, Mrs. James E. Crouthers, Telephone girls—Miss Laird, Mrs. Theodore Burnett, Mrs. Mae Crawford.

Mrs. Ida M. Theurer, Mrs. Walter Strong, Miss Elizabeth Alcott, Mrs. Hilmer, Mrs. Foster Roos, Mrs. Carl Schnuch, Miss Frances Farrington, Mrs. F. E. Robertson, Mrs. Fred Warren, Walt's Dairy, Miss Turner, Miss Eva Bell Adams, Mrs. L. O. Kellogg, Mrs. Norman Larson, Mrs. Peter Taylor, Mrs. (Dr.) McCarthy, Mrs. F. E. Robinson, Mrs. E. R. Hill, Mrs. Ben Wetzel, Miss Helen Vye.

Mr. and Mrs. Vanaman, Miss Jessie Colvin, Mary D'Arcy Gaw, Beverly Douglas, Kay Hamm, Mrs. A. M. Allan, Mrs. H. S. Greiner, Mrs. B. Coughlan, Mrs. Carl Kappes, Mrs. C. H. Stearns, Mrs. Paul H. Low, Mrs. J. Peabody, Mrs. Mary Giesting, Mrs. O. Goodrich, Mrs. Ida Hanke, Mrs. Feil, Mrs. Mann, Mrs. W. F. Coughlin, Mrs. Dowsett Norwell, Miss May Deserpa, Mrs. D. M. Verrechia, Mrs. J. M. Dickinson, Mrs. Robert Doolittle, Mrs. John Clay, Mrs. C. W. Laugenour.

Mrs. Westrick, Mrs. Fred Warren, Miss Gertrude Rendtorff, Mrs. Gerry Jordan, Ruth Jacobs, Mrs. Alfred Wolff, Miss F. Hartwell, Mrs. J. O. Handley, Helen Willard, Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. V. A. Torres, C. Coy, Mrs. T. B. Wilson, Mrs. R. F. Maddux, Mrs. Hurd Comstock, Mrs. Lewis Josselyn, Mrs. Floyd Smith, Peninsula P.G. & E. Ladies — Lloyd Weer, Mrs. H. S. Duff, Emily Pitkin, Miss Greer Garson, Bundles for America & Britain, Mrs. Robinson and friends, Mrs. Paul K. Hill, Mrs. Susan Cory, Mrs. Gladys Young, James Doud, Mrs. Krepps.

Mrs. Frank B. Sowells, Jr., Mrs. W. T. Lee, Mrs. J. L. Hughes, Mrs. Ritter Holman, Mrs. Arthur Strausburger, Jean Ritchie, Mrs. W. H. P. Hill, Mrs. Cooper Anderson, American Legion Auxiliary—Mrs. Ed Ewig, Noel Sullivan, Mrs. Coral Wreath Sly, Mrs. J. R. Sneyd, Mrs. Morgenthau, Mrs. Wallace, Mrs. R. C. Gibbs.

Miss Rhoda Spofford, Mrs. J. D. Thorne, Mrs. Walter Hicks.

The Christmas decorations in the living room were as beautiful as esthetic Carmel could wish for. In fact one of the individual units of candles, cones and pine boughs came from the Carmel Art Gallery.

Noel Sullivan's exquisite and gracious little madonna carved of olive wood was in a way the heart of the Christmas decor. And the stylized white wreaths given by Mrs. Grant Stanford added another note of modern charm.

Mrs. James Cooke and Mrs. T. B. Wilson were responsible for the decorating and should be congratulated.

The whole place had the cozy warm feeling of a home on Christmas Day. And Greer Garson coming to wish the service men a Merry Christmas that night gave the boys something to remember long after Christmas, definitely something to write home about.

Mrs. R. C. Gibbs, who headed the committee in charge of all arrangements, says: "No chairman ever had better cooperation than I had for this USO Christmas. Thanks a million for everything!"

The Carmel USO probably has a charm no other one has. Perhaps because of its house-like proportions and intimacy. Perhaps because it is in Carmel. Anyway, servicemen go for it in a big way. As one Commander at Fort Ord asked, puzzled:

"I keep wondering what the heck it is the Carmel USO has which makes all the men out on maneuvers always so awfully anxious to get back there!"

Because the Monterey USO chased down a bass viol—borrowing one from a school—Fort Ord convalescents at the hospital can have regular entertainment by Pvt. Chester Harding and his instrumental quartet. Harding, a distinguished musician, once with the Minneapolis symphony, and later with Isham Jones orchestra, once he had the USO bass viol—which he plays personally, started a quartet. He is now no longer a mail carrier but has been assigned to the office of the hospital chaplain, Chaplain Eubanks. Now his quartet, "The Four Medic Men" is kept on the jump playing at the hospital, mess halls, chapels and the stockade. Classical pieces, cow boy ditties, hymns and novelty numbers. All because a USO found a string bass.
